

Arkle Theatre Company's Fringe (late) show
You Remind Me of You, by Matthew Capodicasa directed by Hannah Bradley

Auditions: Monday 9th April, 7:00pm at Saint Mark's Unitarian Church

Performances: Monday 13th - Saturday 18th August, 8:30pm at The Royal Scots Club

The Plot:

Girl meets boy. Boy meets girl.

It's a familiar story which becomes complicated when he can't remember her face.

Adele and Vincent meet in a bar, where most modern love stories begin. But love is never easy and the pair have family illness and neurological disease in the way of happiness.

As Adele begins to fall for Vincent, a musician with face blindness, her father's condition worsens and she finds herself surrounded by people who, despite knowing her deeply, cannot recognise her.

They say that love is blind; can it truly conquer all?

The Characters:

Total parts: 2 men, 2 women

NB: Adele and Vincent appear briefly on stage in only underwear. Vincent should play an instrument and be comfortable singing.

Adele (25 - 40) Has left education to care for her father, Nathaniel. Begins relationship with Vincent after meeting him in a bar.

Franny (25 - 40) Adele's best friend and former flatmate. Recently moved in with her long term girlfriend.

Nathaniel (50+) Adele's father. Has recently moved in with Adele after an accident. Suffering signs of early-onset Alzheimer's.

Vincent (25 - 40) Suffers from Prosopagnosia or face blindness. Singer/Songwriter. Meets Adele at an open mic in a bar.
